Under the operational control of Admiral William F. Halsey, USN, the Alabama, with 11 other battleships, 17 aircraft carriers, six escort carriers, 20 cruisers and more than 200 other U. S. ships, is helping take over control of the Nips' big naval base.

The explorer, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, USN, retired, was on board temporarily during a shore bombardment near Tokyo shortly before the end of the war. He called this bombardment "a milestone in warfare" because the ship was "able to hit the target so accurately without being able to see it."

The sugar shortage will be more or less acute for many months to come. Try using dried fruits such as prunes and raisins. They have a natural sweetness that will help extend the sugar content of your meals—and they're good for the family diet.

MULLINS-TAYLOR WEDDING SOLEMNIZED ON AUGUST 19

The marriage of Miss Martha Mullins and Victor Patrick Taylor, Jr., took place August 19, at the home of the bride's parents, at an afternoon ceremony in the presence of relatives and a few friends of the bridal couple.

The Rev. J. B. Johnson, of the Baptist Church of Ozark, officiated, using an impressive double ring ceremony.

Bowl arrangements of white asters, gladioli, and small lighted candles made decoration in the center.

Sprays of huckleberry and plumosa formed a leafy pattern around a large antique mirror used as a backdrop.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mullins, of Elba, and is descended from the Levey family. She received her early education in Elba and was graduated from Alabama college, later attending the University of Chicago. For

During the assemblage of guests a beautiful program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Arden Bradburn and Miss Mary Lou sang "Because" and "At Dawning."

Miss Patsy Louis Mullins, small sister of the bride, wearing a pink dress with dainty lace trim, lighted the candles while Mrs. Bradley played an air from "Clara de Lune." Her wrist corsage was of pink roses. During the ceremony Mrs. Bradley played softly "Liebestraum."

Miss Katherine Mullins was her sister's only attendant and wore a lovely costume of seafan green wool with self-trimmed bodice and corsage of sweetheart roses.

The bride entered with her father and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, V. P. Taylor, Jr.

The bride was given in a beautiful full suit of light brown with which she wore a sheer aqua blouse. Her hat was a smart model of brown felt with sequin trim and small veil and other accessories were in matching shades of brown. She carried white orchids attached to a prayer book by a shower of dainty white ribbons, lilies of the valley, and stephanotis. She wore a lavender given to her by the groom's mother who also wore it at her wedding. Lohengrin's wedding march was used.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for their home.

The bride's bridesmaids were Miss Mary Lou Taylor, Miss Patsy Louis Mullins, and Miss Katherine Mullins. The groom's best man was V. P. Taylor, Jr.

Mullins entertained with a reception. The dining room was decorated in a theme of green and white. Asters, gladioli, sprays of plumosa and clematis were artistically arranged in standard baskets and bowls.

The bride's table, veiled with an exquisite lace cloth, was centered with a large wedding cake in the shape of a wedding band and embellished with ornate decorations of valley lilies, roses, and stephanotis. On a mirrored plaque, it was garlanded with asters, daisies and plumosa. Antique silver centerpieces, tapered in the shape of waxen tapers illuminated the scene.

Mints in crystal compotes were placed at the ends of the table and the ornate decorations were linked by traces of plumosa and clematis, showered with white satin ribbons.

Misses Jane Levere, Frances Conner, Sybil Rowell, Julie Gray, and Victor Rhodes, Mrs. Milton Edmondson and Mrs. Manuel Jones, wearing pastel evening gowns, served and were assisted by Mrs. Sam Sawyer and Mrs. J. C. Dixon.

Miss Maggie Dean Clark registered guests in the bride's book.

JUDAH'S CONCERN FOR HIS FAMILY

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Love shall I go up to my father, and the land be not with me!—Genesis 44:24.

The family is the fundamental unit of society, and is therefore of more importance than the church, the state, or the social order of which it is a vital part. Every force which encourages the breakdown of the sacred relationships of the home and family is set for the destruction of society itself.

Men have too often chosen to go the way of the devil, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But the home is just as sacred as ever in His sight, and brotherly love still finds a place among the virtues of real men.

The family comes before us as we continue the study of Joseph's life. As we study it we bear in mind Joseph's dealings with his brethren, who as yet did not recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity. He was bringing them kindly but definitely to the point of real repentance, so that he could show himself gracious to them.

To do so he had brought disaster upon the way of the devil, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But the home is just as sacred as ever in His sight, and brotherly love still finds a place among the virtues of real men.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

MacArthur Lands to Rule Japan; Press Demands for Open Airing Of Disaster at Pearl Harbor

By HAROLD L. LINDQUIST, D. D., Of the National Institute of Religious Education, Inc., Released by Western Newspaper Union

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the writer and not necessarily those of this newspaper.

Not as bluster as he was when Germany ruled the European world, but as a statesman, General MacArthur, topped the list of 24 Nazis scheduled for trial as war criminals early in October.

Named with Goering was a galaxy of former Nazi bigwigs accused of preparing the nation financially and industrially for war; scheming diplomatically for advantage; regaining the nation internally, and leading the German armed legions into attack.

Next to Goering, Rudolf Hess, Hitler's choice for his successor before he flew to Scotland in a vain effort to receive Allied support for an attack on Russia, heads up the list of defendants. Close behind are Joachim von Ribbentrop, who as foreign minister, directed Nazi diplomacy; Martin Bormann, head of the people's army; Franz von Papen, big shot in German politics and master of international intrigue; Adm. Karl Doenitz, who directed U-boat warfare, and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the Wehrmacht.

Joint U. S., British, Russian and French plans to try the accused at Nuremberg, Germany, military tribunal in the former Nazi shrine of Nuremberg, however, did not prevent the approval of many distinguished members of the American Bar.

Declaring that Allied procedure was without historical precedent, P. F. Gault, constitutional and international law expert, said the system of trial offered the danger pattern which might be followed in the future against the President of the U. S. down to ordinary citizens. Under procedure established, trials may be held in Germany, and the accused; no appeal is provided against judgment; the tribunal may be held in any place; and findings, demanding open trial of principals involved and access to information upon which the investigation is based.

Gen. Marshall based his conclusions. No sooner had reports been made public, adding the names of Gen. George C. Marshall, Adm. Harold Stark and Sec. of War Henry Stimson, took upon themselves to take proper precautions than Chairman May (Dem., Ky.) of the House military affairs committee declared he would not stand for "any whitewash." The people are entitled to know the whole truth based on all the facts, he said.

On the other side of Congress, Sen. Taft (Rep., Ohio) said the reports left a lot to be told, and full evidence studied by the House committee of the state of affairs in the Pacific, he said, now that military security no longer is involved.

In addition to the report had other repercussions, too, President Harry S. Truman and Secretary of War Henry Stimson took upon themselves to take proper precautions than Chairman May (Dem., Ky.) of the House military affairs committee declared he would not stand for "any whitewash." The people are entitled to know the whole truth based on all the facts, he said.

MRS. MARY JANE SMITH
DIED AUGUST 27

Our hearts were made sad Monday morning, Aug. 27, at six o'clock when God saw fit to take from our midst our loved one, Mrs. Mary Jane Smith. She was 96 years old and had been in declining health for some time, but a change for the worse came about two weeks before her death. All was done for her that loving hands could do.

She was gentle and kind, always ready to lend a helping hand. She was a friend to everybody. Her cheerful words and smiling face were a ray of sunshine to her loved ones. We miss her more than words can tell. We should not grieve at her going for we know she is free from suffering. She spent most of her life in Coffee. May God bless her loved ones.

Surviving are one son, Johnnie Smith, Jack Route 1; one daughter, Mrs. J. A. White, Temile Route 2; eleven grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends. Funeral was held Tuesday, Aug. 28, at ten o'clock from the New Hope Church with Rev. Huey Ziglar officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

By One Who Loved Her.

THE NEW INSECTICIDE DDT; ITS USE

By Hugh D. Sexton, County Agent

The following information which is prepared by W. A. Ruffin, Extension Entomologist and Horticulturist, relative to the use of DDT, is passed on to those who may be interested.

The new insecticide DDT has received so much publicity that many people have come to think of it as a panacea for all insects. It is a material that is very effective in the control of some insects, it is most ineffective in killing others. DDT will kill honey bees and other useful insects, fish and shellfish. It is very dangerous to man and livestock when used on plants that are to be eaten.

The material when used as a dust or spray has not been especially harmful to most plants. Squash and other cucurbits are injured by light applications.

DDT when applied at the rate of 25 pounds per acre to soil, was found to retard the growth of many plants. However, it would take several years to accumulate injurious amounts in the soil when ordinary amounts are used.

DDT is not recommended for the control of many insects that are pests of man and livestock. It can be used safely as a dust or as a wettable powder mixed with water.

For flies and mosquitoes, a 5 per cent oil spray with 1/2 ounce of DDT in 100 gallons of water should be used. A spray with a coarse nozzle should be used in applying the material to walls, ceilings, curtains, screens, windows, lamp-covers and other places where the insect may light. One treatment on the inside surfaces of a building will give protection from flies and mosquitoes for 30 days or longer.

On outside surfaces, it will last for about two weeks.

An oil spray that contains DDT must not be used on livestock. If an oil solution of this material is used in spraying buildings, every precaution must be taken to keep it from getting on the body of the person applying it.

A dust that contains 10 per cent DDT, when applied to infested areas in the house, will kill bed bugs, roaches, fleas, ants and other household pests. The dust should be applied with a small dust gun. For bed bugs, dust all parts of bed and mattress. For other household pests, dust cracks, around baseboards, cabinets, kitchen sink and all outside doors and windows. Before applying the dust, all food—especially fats—should be removed or placed in tight containers. The person applying the dust should tie a damp cloth over the nose and mouth.

A 5 per cent oil spray has been found to be effective against termites and other wood-boring insects. The spray is made by dissolving 7 ounces of pure DDT in one gallon of kerosene. Infested wood or soil can be treated with this solution. Do not get this material on the hands or other parts of the body.

DDT will kill many insects that attack field crops, vegetables, fruit and stored grain. However, it cannot be recommended for use on anything that is to be eaten by man or livestock.

Small quantities of DDT can be obtained now from firms that handle insecticides. Use only as recommended by manufacturer.

In other words, DDT has been proven to be an insecticide that is most effective in the control of many insects. However, until more is known about this poison
